THE REVIEWERS ON THE TRISH QUESTION: LONDON, 29th January.

The Intest number of the Ninetcenth Contury contains an article by Arnold Forster, which has created a sensation here. The writer recalls that Irishman were at the bottom of the Molly Magnire conspiracy in Pennsylvania; that Irishmen plotted against officials and Chinese in San-Francisco; that the Tammany ring was largely supported by Irish-Americans, and Boston police were tampered with by Irish politicions of that city. The history of the world shows, he says, that the Irish engaged in conspiracies wherever they may be, and he advises that the English Government should exercise firmness in its treatment of Ireland, as otherwise a recongnest of the country will be necessary. The Fortnightly Review publishes a political article which is generally supposed to reflect the views of Joseph Chamberlain on the present crisis. The writer expresses great regret at the "timidity of the Whigs," who seem to be afraid and intimates that falling off in American done tions to the league treasury will bring Parnell Englishmen may justly grant. In conclusion, the writer says if England over yields to the Irish domand for a native parliament she will have no land from Great Britain.

During the service the priest read an ordinance from the Bishop which forbade him to celebrate the church ceremonies if the displays continued to be made against the Curtin family. Nevertheless, when the congregation had been dimissed and the young ladies came out, the entire congregation surrounded them, hooting and yelling. Head Inspector McDermot was in the churchyard with a force of forty police. He asked the people to disperse, upon which they became menacing toward the girls. He then ordered his force to charge, and they succeeded in dispersing the assemblage, after which the force escorted the young women to their homes.
